Mystery Man Adds Intrigue to RFC Probe

Washington, April 7 — (A) — A mystery man today got into a story of political intrigue which Senator Tobey (R-NH) has added to a senate investigation of the reconstruction finance corporation (RFC).

Tobey told the subcommittee in a closed-door hearing Wednesday he has some red hot information about efforts to upset the group's investigation of RFC affairs.

Highly qualified sources, asking not to be named, said today Tobey told the group under oath that a man he declined to identify had given him details concerning an undercover move to squelch the subcommittee's inquiry. He indicated they said, that the man is a gov ernment official whom all or most of them know. Tobey, the informants said, also mentioned in his sworn statement the names of Donald Dawson and 'in an incidental manner'' David K, Niles. Both men are aides to President Truman. The informants said both may appear as witnesses as a result.

No one, however, seemed clear as to how testimony would be drawn from either. The subcommitee has named Dawson in a report to the senate as a member of a political influence ring which it said had vast powers over RFC affairs. Niles had never before been mentioned in connection with the inquiry.

It was learned the subcommittee had insisted that Tobey re-check the basis for his accusations with the unidentified source before the group would call a public hearing, Tobey told reporters today "I'm

Students Get Break in New Draft Plan

Washington, April 7 -(A)- New liberalized plans for draft deferment of high school graduates and college students, announced this week, will be reviewed at a special meeting Monday of the house armed services committee. This reappraisal, with Maj. Gen. Lewis Herehey, selective service, director, doing the explaining, comes at a critical point during house consideration of the highly controversial universal military training and service (UMTS) bill.

Reportedly, the house armed services committee in approving the draft-UMTS bill okayed the student deferment plans in outline. Several members have since found they didn't realize how liberal they would be until spelled out.

Supporters of the UMTS bill did a double-gulp when, amid arguing years to 18 years and six months they read front page stories of the He declined to say whether he new student deferment regulations. These would permit students now

Mr. Hoover certainly didn't win some of Mr. Truman's severest critics, finally voted for putting at least six American divisions into the international army.

But two Republican sonators who picked up the Hoover ball and carrled it further than he eld - Talt of Chia and Wherry of Nebraskawon, if not a whole point, at least part of a point.

They said the President had no constitutional right to send the troops without first geting approval of congress. The big senate debate began, it went en, all told, for three months.

The senators, obviously unsure of thomselves and what they were doing, wennel-worded and admitled they couldn't by sure of the meaning of a resolution which they had plenty of time to put in writ ing.
They finally cleared it up -- their collective satisfaction, though few if any individuals were fully natisfied. They voted a reso lution which said two main things: 1. It was all right for Mr. Truman to put six divisions in Eu-

But, since congress controls the purse strings, it might later refuse to vote money to maintain the troops overseas. Whether it would do that, once the troops were sont, is something for congress to decide.

And the resolution is so vague it doesn't even say how Mr. Truman should seek the approval or how congress would give it, whether by a law, a resolution, or in some other way.

And then there's this question: Suppose Mr. Truman wanted to get congressional approval before sending more troops, but the military leaders told him more and in large numbers had to be sent in security leaders that to be sent in security. What then?

Whould it be for the country's welfare to tip off the enemy by (1) discipling how many troops were named a verseas or (2) by delay-

Aince, as mentioned the resolu-ities desay't even explain how con-gress should go about giving ap-proval, it might waste precious line, maybe weeks or months, trying to figure out (1) hew to give approval and (2) whether to give approval and (2) whether to give it. All with more debate.

And it roight be particularly dan-gerous sometime to consult congreat about troops movements or numbers, since congressmen aren't noted for keeping their mouths shut

Still, the resolution is a nudge to any President, including Mr. Tru-man, egalost recklessly communit ting American troops oversess without being sure congress likes the idea. Any President of course, would deny be was reckless.
